CITY OF CHESTER SUNK.

Thirteen of the Passengers and Crew Drowned —A Terrible Scene on the Deck of the Fated Vessel—Several Accounts of the Terrible Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The steamer Oceanic, from China and Japan, collided with and sunk the steamer City of Chester this morning at the entrance to the Golden Gate. The City of Chester had just sailed with over 70 passengers for Eureka, Cal. The City of Chester was commanded by Captain Wallace. She left her berth at 9 o'clock this morning. She neared the Presidio reservation, which is just inside of Golden Gate Straits. The atmosphere became very thick and objects were scarcely distinguishable at close range. A few minutes before 10 o'clock a huge vessel was noticed directly in front of the Chester, bearing right down upon her. Before any attempt on the part of the Chester's officers could be made to change the course and avert a disaster a terrific crash was heard, and she began to sink. Immediately there was a panic on board and many of her passengers leaped into the water making for the shore. The vessel which had given the Chester her death blow was the Oceanic from the Orient with 80 cabin passengers and a thousand Chinese. Boats were speedily lowered from her and the work of rescue commenced. Almost immediately the body of a dead man was picked up and it was found to be the steward of the unlucky Chester. A large number, who were floating about in the water on wreckage and life preservers, were rescued by the boats and tugs, and the bay steamer, San Rafael, which had come to the Chester's assistance, and taken aboard the Oceanic. The Chester rapidly filled after she had been struck, and was under water within four or five minutes. When the work of rescue had been about completed and the roll called for those saved, it was found that fifteen passengers and three of the crew had been drowned. Capt. Thomas Wallace, of the Chester, when seen by a Postal press reporter about noon, made the following rough statement: "We were making our way out against a strong flood tide, when I heard a whistle ahead, and from the direction from which the sound came I thought we were all right, but next instant I saw the dark hull of the Oceanic above me as she crashed into our port side near the forehatch. The fog was so thick we could see nothing and the disaster happened quicker by a good deal than I can tell it. The water must be forty fathoms deep at that point and we went down rapidly. The confusion was great, but the men did the best they could. They got out the boats and passengers as quickly as possible and were transferred to the Oceanic. I was thrown into water and had to scramble out from the wreckage. It was reported when we started for the shore that fifteen or sixteen had been drowned. One poor fellow was crushed to death between the two vessels. The Oceanic was a long time in getting her boats into the water. I understand that her Chinese crew of 90 were afraid to man them, fearing that when our steamer sank they would be drawn down and engulfed. Among those who were on board when she sank were Captain Thomas Wallace, first mate C. McCallum, second mate J. Lunden, third mate S. N. Sunkgreen, purser O. G. Debeny, chief engineer F. C. Cooleson, first assistant engineer W. Bowey, second assistant engineer R. Comstock. There was also a crew of 37, but a good many of them jumped on board the Oceanic directly she struck the Chester. The Chester was valued at $150,000, and insured in various companies for $75,000. She was an iron vessel of 785 tons burden. The name of only one of the lost was known, that of Edward Chambers, the Chester's steward.

At 2.30 p. m. the following were known to be drowned: G. W. Anderson, M. B. Meach, Miss Pratger, Mrs. C. Haney, J. C. Hampton and wife, Mrs. Porter and three of the crew.

The lost City of Chester was built at Chester, Penn., in 1874, and was an iron screw steamer of 785 tons. She was owned by the Oregon Improvement Company, and formerly ran to Victoria as the regular passenger and mail boat.

Later News.

S. P. Davis, of Eureka, one of the Chester's passengers, gave a reporter the following particulars: "When the Oceanic was sighted she was half a mile ahead and approaching bow on. Neither vessel stopped until just as they were about to strike, when the Chester's engines ceased working and the two vessels collided. As they did so the smaller vessel swung around, and the Oceanic

Immediately there was a rush to clamber up to the Oceanic's deck. The rush of passengers and crew to the one side that already had been crashed in, helped to send the ship down faster. The boats were lashed to the davits and decks, and axes had to be used to cut them loose. The same thing occurred on the Oceanic. Just before the vessels struck the bell on the Chester was rung for the first time. After the collision the Oceanic laid alongside the crippled vessel until she took her last plunge, which occurred in ten minutes, and then she remained anchored at the scene of the wreck for two and a half hours. About half the passengers scrambled on to the deck of the Oceanic, and the remainder were obliged to strap life preservers around them and jump into the water, trusting to be picked up by some of the boats.

ABOARD THE OCEANIC

there was naturally a scene of great confusion. Boats that were lowered kept bringing half drowned people aboard and these received care and attention from all the officers and passengers. Steward Broughton, the steamer's surgeon, purser and all the lady passengers did all in their power for the sufferers. The ladies gave freely of their dry clothes to the soaking ones. Many were wrapped in blankets and the main saloon looked like a hospital. There were sad scenes there. Children without parents, a wife with her husband missing, a mother with her child gone, were there walking about and refusing all efforts at consolation or cheer.

THE PILOT'S ACCOUNT.

Capt. Meyers, the Oceanic's pilot, made the following statement this afternoon: "We were whistling and then heard the steamer respond on our starboard bow. We whistled again with two blows and heard the steamer blow twice, that meaning to go to starboard for both of us. When we heard the second whistle we saw the steamer coming toward us and I heard the engines stopped. Still we were making a little headway and I ordered the engines to go back full speed. The Chester shot across our bow and then we struck. We had been backing water fully two minutes before the collision. I am sure of this, for I verified it from the engineer's orders. We struck the Chester on the port bow, and then I ordered the engines, which were pulling us hard astern, to be reversed and put us right in on the Chester, for I wanted to let the people get on our bows. We then ordered the boats lowered, and did all we could to save lives."

C. S. Arthur, purser of the Oceanic, was writing in his cabin when aroused by the sharp blasts of the whistle, and sprang on deck just as the collision took place. He says the scenes upon the deck of the Chester were perfectly heartrending. The greatest confusion prevailed and undoubtedly many lives were lost from this cause. The boats of the Oceanic were in the water within a couple of minutes, while life-buoys were thrown overboard to those already struggling in the water. Scarcely five minutes elapsed from the time of the collision until the Chester turned over like a box and sank, the boilers exploding when water reached the fires.

THE MISSING.

A careful comparison by officials of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company of the list of cabin passengers shows that the following are not accounted for: G W Anderson, Oakland; Mrs Meech, Mrs S E Prater, San Diego; Mrs C H Haney, Eureka; J C Hampton, Virginia City; Mrs J C Hampton, C T Davis, Springville, Ills.; Miss Davis, (niece of the above), J Greer, Napa; Robert Fulton, waiter; Adam Richmond, waiter; Mrs Porter. The above list, together with Edward Chambers, the dead steward, makes the number lost thirteen.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Rejection of the Fisheries Treaty Causes no Surprise—The Matter Discussed Moderately by the Ontario Papers—The "Modus Vivendi" will Probably Continue for the Present Season.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The rejection of the fishery treaty has not caused any surprise. The papers in Ontario discuss the matter moderately. The Empire says: "It is unfortunate, but more so for the people of the States than for us that such motives are allowed to interfere with the reasonable transaction of their affairs, and even without paying any respect to the diplomatic action of their chief magistrate." The Globe cites the collapse of the treaty as a new argument in favor of Canada to negotiate her own commercial treaties.

The Minister of Marine in an interview stated that the modus vivendi would probably continue for the remainder of the present season at least.

FROM THE ORIENT.

The Emperor's Marriage Fixed for the 24th February.

Closing the Gap in the Yellow River a Total Failure — Rescue of a Priest from Infuriated Natives — Fifty Lives for Fifty Bullets—Disastrous Fire in Japan—Clan Fight in Amoy.

(Special to THE COLONIST.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—The steamer Oceanic, which arrived from China and Japan to-day, brings the following advices:

Choleraic diarrhœa, with the return of comparatively dry weather, has almost entirely disappeared from Hongkong.

The Emperor's marriage is definitely fixed for the 24th of February next.

The work of closing the gap made by the Yellow River is a total failure, and the millions of money and labor spent on the breach during the past few months have been in vain.

News is received of a terrible occurrence in a village of Antibuen, near Manilla. A horde of natives started out one day lately to kill the priest, and they were engaged in beating him to death, when another white man arrived on the scene with a rifle and 50 cartridges. He set quietly to work and with every cartridge brought down a native. As soon as fifty of the mob were killed, the rest became discouraged and retired, and the life of the priest was saved.

Richardson, hotel and house, $1,500; Mrs. Warren, private residence, $500; J. Grant, house, $200; and a Chinese laundry. No insurance. The fire is supposed to have ignited from a spark from the saw mill engine.

Impressive Funeral Services Over the Remains of Bishop Harris in Westminster Abbey—Queen Victoria Visits the Glasgow Exhibition—Prince and Princess of Wales Visiting Austria.

Eulogy on the Late Bishop.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The funeral service over the body of Bishop Harris, in Westminster Abbey this afternoon, was very impressive. The burial service was intoned by Canon Westcott. The eulogy was delivered by the Bishop of Mississippi, and the benediction pronounced by Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota. The eulogist paid a high tribute to the deceased as a jurist, priest and soldier, moving many of those present to tears by the pathos of his remarks. The immediate cause of Dr. Harris' death, he said, was overwork, the result of zeal and devotion to his duty, which had characterized every undertaking of his life. Among those present, besides the family of the deceased, were Minister Phelps and wife, the officers of the American Legation, Consul-General Waller, Mr. John W. Macclure, member of parliament for Stranmord, Rev. Messrs. Walden and Gallandot, of New York, Mrs. Baldwin, wife of Ex-Governor Baldwin, of Michigan, Mr. J. S. Morgan, and Dr. and Mrs. McGraw, Dr. McCaroll, Mrs. Atchison, and Mr. and Mrs. Park, all of Detroit. The body will be taken on board the steamer Lahn on Thursday and conveyed to New York.

Funeral of Bishop Harris.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The body of Bishop Harris, of Michigan, who died last night, was embalmed to-day. Funeral services were held over the deceased prelate this afternoon at Westminster Abbey, at which there was a large attendance. The remains will be shipped to the United States. After preaching in Winchester Cathedral the bishop showed symptoms of paralysis. He was then taken to Bonesa, on the Frith of Forth, Scotland, where it was thought the water treatment would benefit him. The bishop, however, derived no benefit there and he soon returned to London. He was attended by Dr. McGraw, of Detroit, Michigan, who called in to his assistance Drs. Maudesley and Reynolds; but it was impossible to save the patient's life, and he expired at six o'clock last evening. His wife and daughter, who had recently arrived, were with him.

Said to be a Spy.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Herr Bebel, leader of the socialist party in the German reichstag, stated in the speech which he delivered in Dresden last January, that M. Bollier, formerly chief of the Zurich police, was in the pay of the German police during his term of office, Bollier, who is now in St. Louis, Mo., upon being notified by friends of Bebel's accusation, instructed a prominent advocate in Zurich to challenge Bebel to produce proof of his charges. This the advocate did, but Bebel made no reply to his communication, whereupon the advocate sent to the president of the reichstag a protest against Bebel's assertions which will be read to the deputies when the reichstag assembles, and Bebel will be undoubtedly required by a vote of his colleagues to defend his statements

Opinion of the Pall Mall Gazette.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Pall Mall Gazette, referring to the rejection of the fisheries treaty, says it is thankful that Chamberlain's mission has not made the difficulty more serious than it was before. Senator Morgan's speech, it says, was buncomb. The rejection of the treaty simply relegates the whole question to an amicable settlement after the presidential election. The paper continues, neither Englishmen or Americans are lunatics, and the world will not be plunged into a bath of blood because opinions differ over a kettle of fish. The matter will be again negotiated after the election and in the meantime we can cultivate an India-rubber forbearance and cool temper.

The "Times" on the Treaty.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Times does not fear any conflict between England and America as a result of the rejection of the fisheries treaty. It says that the election of a new president will cause a wonderful calming down of party passions. There is a shrewd opinion expressed that even Harrison, if elected, will find it convenient to effect a similar settlement of the pending fishery disputes with enough colorable alteration in its details to save the pride of his party.

Press Comment on the Treaty.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Daily News, commenting on the rejection of the international fisheries treaty by the United States Senate says: "It is another example of the evils which the disunionists are bringing upon their country." The Chronicle says: "This unworthy attempt to make party capital out of a question which might involve the two countries in a war is more likely to endear the republican party to the majority of native-born Americans.

Boulanger's Popularity.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Although yesterday's London papers devoted considerable space to comments on Boulanger's victory, they make no mention of him today and it is quite evident he has fallen as flat as a war bogie in the minds of Englishmen.

Steamer Ashore.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The British steamer Alicia, Captain Aldamir, which arrived at Cork yesterday from Baltimore, is ashore. She is in a dangerous position and is straining heavily amidships. Her cargo is being lightered.

Matthews, an Englishman, commanding the Zanzibar troops, has been awarded the second class decoration of the German order of the crown. This creates surprise in Berlin, because it has always been supposed Gen. Matthews was hostile to German interests.

Crispi and Bismarck.

AMERICAN NEWS.

The Eastern Floods.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Yesterday's storm appears to have been much more extensive and caused more damage than was first supposed. In Pennsylvania all the streams are reported greatly swollen, and railroads interfered with by washouts and damaged bridges. In the Schuylkill coal regions many collories were compelled to suspend operations on account of the mines being flooded. In Pittsburg and Allegheny a large number of cellars were flooded, houses wrecked and streets flooded. A number of iron mills were compelled to shut down. The Pennsylvania railroad is impassible between Pittsburg and Greensburg. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is even more seriously crippled. It is not thought trains will be able to pass over the Wheeling division within a week. Tracks of the Pittsburg & Western are several feet under water, and a number of freight cars have been floated from their trucks and wrecked. Along the banks of the Youghiageny, Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers, hundreds of houses are flooded and the families compelled to vacate them. A number of buildings have also been swept away. In Eastern Ohio and West Virginia the floods are doing immense damage. The Panhandle and Cleveland and Pittsburg roads are overflowed in several places, while the Bellaire, Zanesville & Cincinnati Railway is closed entirely.

Drowning Accident.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Mr. L. Hilton and Miss Nellie Archibald, of Montreal, was drowned in Lake Memphremagog today by the upsetting of their canoe in a squall.

Terrible Cyclone.

DELAWARE, Aug. 22.—In Delaware a terrible cyclone wrought great havoc a few miles south of Wilmington. Losses were $75,000. On the Delaware river a pleasure party were capsized and five persons drowned. Theodore Bruce's blacksmith shop was blown down and Bruce killed. From Kent county, Md., reports come that ten persons were killed by the storm. Wires are all down and news comes in slowly. At Chestertown, Md., Kreb's can factory was demolished and the following killed: Chas. Schweitzenberg, Chas. Beauchamp and wife, Laurie Ampies, August Goste, wife and two boys, and Rossie Gould. Three others injured. There were thirty-four persons in the building when it was blown down. In the vicinity of New York city the storm was very severe, but no serious damage is reported beyond flooded streets and some delay on the railroads. The storm at sea was probably very heavy and fears are entertained that great damage has been done to shipping.

Fatal Explosion.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 22.—At nine o'clock to-night two men were instantly killed and several others injured by the explosion of an iron pipe on the balcony of Dr. Reid's office, 75 Main street. The pipe was improvised as a feeder for red and blue fire powder, the powder dropping through the pipe into a projecting natural gas torch. The pipe exploded, shattering part of the balcony and splitting the pipe into fragments. One of the flying pieces struck Robert Hurley, who was standing on the opposite side of the street, tearing away the whole top of his head. W. E. Curtis, of Rew City, and Ed. Duel were also fatally injured. M. Albert had an arm blown off, and Mrs. McCombes lost a leg. Several women and children were more or less injured. The explosion occurred on the main thoroughfare where thousands of people were congregated to witness a night parade of the G. A. R.

Smuggler Gardiner Again Arrested.

CAICAGO, Aug. 22.—"E. R. Brown," the alleged opium smuggler, who was arrested last Friday by special agents of the treasury department, now proves to be C. H. Gardiner, ex-custom house officer at Portland, Oregon, who was tried and acquitted on a charge of smuggling a month ago at that place. His home is at Ogdensburg, N. Y. Customs officials and the prisoner himself observe the greatest reticence, and it is difficult to learn the exact status of the case. The officers, however, claim that developments of great importance in regard to Portland and Canadian smuggling rings will be forthcoming in a few days.

Coal Combination.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 22.—A combination of the principal coal companies of Kentucky and Virginia has been formed, involving about $3,000,000 capital and 14,900 acres of coal land, containing many mines, tenements and stores.

THE UNITED STATES' MINERAL RESOURCES.

British Columbia is essentially a mineral country. We look confidently forward at an early day to such a boom in the interior as will lift this western province to even a greater eminence than has been attained by some of the states of the American Republic. To the many who are concerned in mining ventures here, the annual report on the Mineral resources of the United States for the year 1887 will prove more than interesting. Through the courtesy of the Chief of the Division of Mining Statistics and Technology of the United States Department of the Interior we have been furnished with advance sheets, from which we gather the following facts: Domestic iron ore consumed, about 11,300,000 long tons; value at mines, $33,900,000—an increase over 1886 of 1,300,000 in quantity and $5,900,000 in value. Imported iron consumed, 1,194,301 long tons; total iron ore consumed in 1887, about 12,494,301 long tons, 1,454,868 tons more than in 1886. Pig iron made, 6,417,148 long tons; value at furnace, $121,925,800—an increase over 1886 of 733,819 in quantity and $26,830,040 in value. Steel of all kinds produced, 3,339,071 long tons—an increase of 776,569 tons over 1886; value at works, $103,811,000. The total spot value of all iron and steel in the first stage of manufacture, excluding all duplications, was $171,103,000—an increase of $28,603,000, as compared with 1886. Limestone, used as flux in the manufacture of pig iron in 1887, about 5,377,000 long tons; value at quarry, about $3,226,200. The total value of gold produced in 1887 was $33,100,000, a decrease of $1,900,000 from 1886. Silver increased from $61,000,000 in 1886, to $53,441,300 (coining value) in 1887. The total production of copper was 184,670,524 pounds, of which 3,750,000 pounds were made from imported pyrites. The total value was $21,052,440, at an average of 11.4 cents per pound. The estimated total consumption of copper in the United States increased by about 14 per cent. The production of lead was 160,700 short tons, valued at $14,463,000, at $90 per short ton. The production of white lead, and the several oxides, from pig lead increased to a total of about 75,000 short tons. The returns of the producers of zinc show an increase from 42,641 short tons in 1886 to 50,340 in 1887. The total production of all kinds of commercial coal in 1887 was 123,965,255 short tons (increase over 1886, 16,283,046 tons), valued at the mines at $173,530,996 (increase 26,418,241). This may be divided into Pennsylvania anthracite, 39,506,255, short tons (increase 2,809,780 short tons), or 35,273,442 long tons (increase 2,508,732 long tons), valued at $79,365,244 (increase, $7,807,118); all other coals, including bituminous, brown coal, lignite, small lots of anthracite produced in Colorado and Arkansas, and 6,000 tons of graphite coal mined in Rhode Island, amounting in the aggregate to 84,459,000 short tons (increase, 13,473,266 tons), valued at $94,165,752 (increase, $18,611,123). The total output of the mines, including colliery consumption was: Pennsylvania anthracite, 37,578,747 long tons (increase over 1886 2,725,670 long tons), or 42,088,197 short tons (increase, 3,052,751 short tons); all other coals, 87,837,360 short tons (increase, 14,129,403 tons), making the total output of all coals from mines in the United States, exclusive of slack coal thrown on the dumps, 129,925,557 short tons (increase, 17,182,164 tons), valued as follows: Anthracite, $84,552,181 (increase, $8,433,061); bituminous, $97,939,656 (increase, $19,458,600); total value, $182,491,837 (increase, $27,891,661). The above figures show a notable increase in 1887 over 1886 in the aggregate output and value of both anthracite and bituminous coal. The total production of coke for the year ending December 31st, 1887, was 7,857,487 short tons, valued at $15,623,574. This is the greatest product ever reached in the United States, being 1,022,419 tons greater than in 1886. The total production of petroleum was 28,249,543 barrels of 42 gallons each. The total value, at an average of 60 cents, was $16,949,725. The increase over 1886 was very slight, only 139,428 barrels. There was a decrease of 11¼ cents per barrel in the average price. The production of natural gas in the United States in 1887 was equivalent to 9,055,099 short tons of coal displaced. This, at an average value of $1.50 a ton, would make the value of the coal displaced by natural gas (which is the measure of the value of the gas), $13,582,150. In 1886 the corresponding quantity was 6,353,000 tons, worth $9,848,150. The production of salt in 1887 was 7,831,962 barrels (of 280 pounds), valued at $4,093,846. The annual production has increased each year since 1883, but the total value has declined, being less in 1887 than in 1884, although only 6,514,937 barrels were made in that year. The value of American gems in the rough state amounted to $88,600, besides gold quartz for specimens and gems, valued at $75,000. Of South Carolina phosphate rock, 480,558 long tons were produced; valued at $1,836,818; an increase of 50,000 tons, but a decrease of $36,118 in value, due to greater competition, reducing the price to $3.75 per ton for land and $4 for river rock. The production of sulphur was about 3,000 tons from Utah, worth $100,000. Litigation checked the use of an increased plant. The imports of Sicilian sulphur, with small shipments from Japan, were 96,882 long tons, valued at $1,688,360. The production of pyrites, 52,500 long tons, valued at $210,000, at $4 per ton at the mines. The production of barytes increased to 15,000 long tons of crude barytes, valued at $75,000 at the mines. The estimated total product of gypsum was 95,000 short tons of crude gypsum, valued at $425,000. In addition, 162,154 long tons of crude gypsum were imported, chiefly from Nova Scotia. The production of mica increased to 70,500 pounds, valued at $142,250. The increase was chiefly in North Carolina. New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Virginia also produced mica. No shipments were reported from the Black Hills or Mexico. The use of mica waste is increasing; 2,000 tons, worth $15,000 were ground in 1887. The amount of feldspar consumed, principally by potters, was 10,200 long tons, valued at $56,100 before grinding. This includes freight to the principal markets, Trenton or New York. The consumption in 1886 was about 5,000 tons less than the production returned by quarrymen. Of flint for pottery 19,800 tons were used. Including the use for sand-paper and in glass manufacture, the total consumption was about 32,000 tons, worth, unground, $185,000. The consumption of kaolin and ball clay by potters aggregated 28,000 tons, valued at $290,000. In addition, the potters used 15,000 tons of fire-clay, worth $50,000. The total product of asbestus hardly exceeded 150 tons, worth $4,500. In addition, several hundred tons of fibrous actinolite were used for weighting paper. Including ocher, metallic paints, and small quantities of umber and sienna, the production amounted to 20,000 long tons, selling for $310,000 at the mines. The production of graphite at Ticonderoga is reported as unchanged. Small lots ranging from graphitic clay to pure graphite were produced in North Carolina. Total production, 416,000 pounds, worth $34,000. This does not include 500 tons of impure graphite mined in Rhode Island for foundry facings. The production of fluorspar remained constant at 5,000 tons in Indiana. The total value was $20,000. The product of mineral waters which was sold amounted to 8,259,609 gallons, worth $1,261,473. Thus it will be seen that the value of all metals produced during the year was $250,419,283; of mineral substances, $281,637,062—making a total value of $532,056,345. The estimated value of mineral products not specified in the statement is $6,000,000. This is the largest total ever reached by the mineral industries of any country. It is nearly $73,000,000 more than the product of the United States in 1886, and considerably more than $100,000,000 in excess of the year 1885. Of many items which have contributed to this result it will be noted that all the metals increased in quantity, except gold and the minor metal, nickel, and nearly all increased in price. The significance of this is seen in the increase in production of the fuels necessary for reducing these metals and preparing them for use. All of these fuels, including natural gas, show a marked increase. The increased value of building stone is principally due to a more careful canvass of this industry than has been possible in previous years. It is not probable that the great total recorded for 1887 will be equaled in the present year, 1888.

THE will of Mr. Gladstone's late whip, the fourth Lord Wolverton, will not, after all, suffer from the technical error which deprived him of personality to the extent of one and a half millions sterling. Mrs. Wyndham Portal and her four unmarried sisters (the daughters of the second Lord Wolverton's younger brother, Mr. St. Leger Glyn, who died in 1873) have executed a voluntary renunciation of the money (£300,000 each) to which they became entitled through the mistake. The income of the present peer will not, however exceed £15,000 a year till after the death of the widow of the second holder of the title, who has a life interest in the estate. Lord Wolverton was "whip" for a great many years for Mr. Gladstone, and spent enormous sums of money in the Liberal interest. The present Lord Wolverton is a home ruler like the late Lord.

PRESS COMMENTS.

(Toronto Empire,)

The news that has arrived by way of Victoria, B.C., of the explorations of Mr. Ogilvie, who, while surveying the far Northwest of Canada on behalf of the Dominion Government, wintered on the Yukon, is very gratifying. He explored the Yukon for 700 miles and found it very rich in gold and silver, some of the miners making large sums. This result is only a fresh instance of the fact that the more Canadian territory is explored the richer it is found to be. This is the case even in localities which have been supposed to be most unpromising. The old Hudson's Bay Territory, said to be only fit for a hunting ground, is now proved to be one of the greatest grain-producing countries in the world, besides its natural wealth in other respects. The British Columbian "sea of mountains," of which we once heard so much, turns out to be exceptionally rich in minerals, clothed with luxuriant forests, with which fertile agricultural lands are interspersed, while its coasts teem with fish of the most valuable kinds. The north shore of Lake Superior, described as sterile rocks, is found to be one of the richest mineral districts in the world, and to be by no means destitute of other resources. The supposed extension of "The American Desert," which we were told reduced the Canadian Northwest Territories to a more narrow fertile belt, really has no existence, being well adapted for pasture, and even for agriculture, while any scantiness of timber for fuel is more than compensated by productive mines of choice coal. Even the supposed frozen north is shown by the investigations of the committee on the Mackenzie river basin to be largely fitted for cultivation, to be one of the greatest petroleum districts of the world, and to be enriched with other natural wealth throughout its thousands of miles of inland navigation. And now we learn authoritatively that even the Arctic Yukon yields gold enough to compensate the adventurous for all the hardships they may undergo. The riches of our country seem to be limitless, for the apparent limits of the day are constantly extended with every fresh exploration or practical test. It is, indeed, a land of which its people may well be proud, and they would be craven pessimists did they not feel confidence in its future.

THE HOSPITAL SITE.

TO THE EDITOR:—The public discussion of the hospital question having furnished occasion, as appears from your issue of this morning, to another of our leading physicians to pronounce in favor of a reconsideration of the site, permit me to indicate what appears to me to be the true end of the discussion, namely, to keep the government informed through the press—the fourth estate—of the drift of public opinion on the subject, as well as to elicit, so far as possible, the arguments, pro and con, which may aid them in their final decision as to the disposal of the public grant. To bear this in mind might tend to eliminate from the correspondence observations and reflections which are not pertinent to the merits of the case, and, perhaps, to induce the hysterically inclined to restrain themselves within the bounds of sobriety and reason. Till the governmental decision is arrived at, the discussion, thus limited, cannot, I apprehend, be too full or too prolonged. The government are the virtual trustees of the grant, and even if, as has been intimated, they have made any sort of a promise, expressed or implied, to pay over the grant they are surely not bound by such promise, should they discover afterwards that it would be injurious to the purposes of their trust to do so in the premises. If a trustee, in failing to carry out a promise, does a wrong, redress must come in some other way. The promise is his own, the trust is another's. Though there be nothing in the letter in this case to bind the government, the spirit and purpose of the grant are binding, namely, to do the best they can with the money, not for the subscribers, but for the public. Trusting that I am not guilty of impertinence in offering the above suggestions, I am, &c.

A SUBSCRIBER AND TAX-PAYER.

FIAT JUSTITIA RUAT CŒLUM.

TO THE EDITOR:—The secretary of the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital is fast becoming a local celebrity. Equipped in inky armour, he brandishes a huge excalibur, and bears emblazoned on his shield the ancient words "I am Sir Oracle, and when I ope' my lips let no dog bark."

Could anything be more ridiculous than such an exhibition of red tapeism? The interests of the hospital, in which are equally involved the interests of each man and woman in Victoria, are lost sight of in a purely personal struggle for supremacy; and a crying evil is not to be rectified, because, forsooth, to set it right would be a tacit condemnation of the doings of the hospital committee in the last few months which have elapsed.

Briefly, the question now at issue has narrowed itself into the following: Are the interests of the hospital (in which is involved its usefulness to individuals) to be sacrificed to the wounded feelings, and private predilections of a section of its general committee, or are they not?

This question has for some time ceased to be a personal one, nor is it one which can be settled by a contest between two, or even sixty-six antagonists; it has arrived at such a point that it can be determined only by the vote of every individual subscriber to the fund. And for this reason, that decision in the matter of the site, will, in the end, be criticized by a tribunal independent of the voice of Mr. Chudley, I refer to the tribunal of results. Results must come inevitably in the form of suffering or benefit to multitudes of men and women who have never been consulted in the matter, and are absolutely innocent of blame. Even supposing that the present site were re-indorsed to-morrow by a large majority of the committee, I contend that this would not decide the matter, which, through its discussion in the press has passed into the hands of a less biased, and far larger witanagemot. The founders of the institution, in the shape of the subscribers, are, I take it, culpably in error, and essentially responsible, if they silently concur in the perpetuation of a fatal and avoidable mistake.

THE ELECTRIC MOTOR.

IT IS BECOMING A FORCE IN ALMOST EVERY INDUSTRY.

Six Millions Invested in the Manufacture of Electric Motors—A Successful Railroad—Electricity in a Flour Mill—The Secret of Progress.

There are now about $6,000,000 invested in the manufacture of electric motors in the United States, and this large investment has nearly all been made within the last three or four years It represents either the independent investment of companies engaged in the exclusive manufacture of motors, or an increase in the capitalization of companies that manufacture electric light appliances, and find the construction of electric motors a good auxiliary industry Some of these companies employ many hundred men, sometimes approaching a thousand; and they turn out motors almost innumerable each year These motors are of all sizes, from one-half horse power for driving sewing machines and such other light work, up to several hundred horse power, for heavy work They are becoming a driving force in almost every industry, and can be utilized in localities where the cost of obtaining fuel would almost equal their operating expenses.

Our readers have already been made familiar with the names of some of the towns and cities in the United States, nearly fifty in all, that have adopted, or are preparing to adopt, the electric motor for street railway traction in preference to horses or cables The systems in use in some of these places are very extended, that of Montgomery, Ala., counting about fifteen miles of road, and transporting over a million passengers annually Electric roads many miles in length are also operated in some of the California cities most noticeably San Diego and Los Angeles.

A SUCCESSFUL RAILROAD.

Recently a road twelve miles long was opened in Richmond, Va., represented by its managers, in a letter published in The Electrical Review, to be a road of peculiar difficulty in operating on account of the sharp curves and difficult grades Some of these grades reach the maximum ever overcome by motors depending on the ad hesiveness of their wheels to the tracks and in the length there are no less than seventeen curves around right angled corners Yet the managers write with the utmost enthusiasm of the successful operation of the road in every particular The cars of the road, described as of a very elegant pattern, are not only propelled by electricity, but they are lighted by electricity which naturally follows, and when the cold weather comes they are to be heated by electricity, in accordance with a system not yet generally introduced, but for which patents have been obtained.

Another field where the utility of the electric motor is soon to be illustrated on a large scale is found in the mining district of Butte county, Cal Among the Big Bend mountains, making a horseshoe curve about a dozen miles in extent, runs the Feather river At the upper end of the curve a dam, built entirely across the river, will throw the water into a tunnel several miles in length which empties into the Dark canyon, the waters of the canyon in turn emptying into the river at the lower end of the horseshoe. A water wheel and electrical generators are to be located in the canyon one mile, or a mile and a half from its mouth, and from these generators will proceed an electrical conductor, which, crossing over the mountains to the dam, will follow the shore of the river around the entire horseshoe, and return to the starting point. This conductor will be eighteen miles in length, estimating the entire distance, and at points here and there along the route are to be located electric motors, numbering fourteen in all These motors will supply the power for all the pumping, hauling and hoisting demanded in the operations of mining after the water has been drawn from the bed of the stream The cost of operating the motor can be easily estimated It will take a man to tend the water wheel, and another man to look after the conductor and keep it in order, and this, plus the interest on the plant, which will not be considerable, will represent the entire outlay

They are building a new capitol at Topeka, in Kansas That might be a matter of no particular concern in New York, where men have learned to be weary of the very word capitol But this Kansas capitol is to be built by electricity There are four electric motors at work on the building lifting the bricks, stones and mortar up to their places, and handling the stones again into position on the walls, They are said to do their work admirably

ELECTRICITY IN A MILL.

Away out in Laramie, Wy T., there is a company known as the Laramie Milling and Elevator company This company has a mill capable of producing 100 barrels of flour a day, and the only visible source of power is seen in a couple of little eccentrically shaped iron cases down in one corner of the roller floor But those cases are twenty five horse power electric motors The manager of the company, under the recent date of April 8, gives a glowing account of their performances. Among their points of excellence he refers to their uniform rate of speed; the ease with which power can be placed where it is wanted, obviating the necessity for long lines of shafting or still more objectionable belts, the economy of room for power plant, the saving of from 30 to 50 per cent in insurance rates, and the saving on first cost of plant. The motors, he says, require very little attention, and give better service with varying loads than any other power that could be adopted

The chief secret of the rapid advance of this new mechanical agent is found in the flexibility of its resources. Electricity is not the generator of power, but only the agency for its transmission and distribution, as it is an agent for the transmission of the human voice over the telephone wire. Through its resources power can be distributed to any point, and in quantities to suit the customer Steam, water, air, caloric or any known agency for generating power is either stationary or it demands stationary applicances; but electricity is its messenger boy, its Puck, who will consent to do its errands invisibly, and never ask a day off or the grant of liberty Does a lady want an infinitesimal bit of electrical energy to relieve her boot on the treadle of her sewing machine? It can be delivered in her room through an iron box not much bigger than her reticule. Is the restaurant keeper plagued by an invasion of flies that expel all but the most hungry and least profitable customers? They can be gently wafted to the door by a multitude of revolving fans and conged out either into the bright sunlight or the refreshing shower.—New York Sun.

To Excursionists.

Canadian Pacific excursion tickets will be exchanged to return over the N. P. R. R. on application at the Northern Pacific ticket office, No. 341, Government street, next door to P. O. This enables excursionists to see Puget Sound, the celebrated "Switchback" and to visit Yellowstone Park via the Palace Pullman and Dining Car route. *

MISCELLANEOUS.

Without the Middleman's Aid.

Every morning there comes to the house in which I live a fine, hale old man, with the fresh scent of country lanes about him, who brings an abundant supply of vegetables, of a quality one can only find in the most expensive green groceries and fruit stores He makes a business of serving the products of his little market garden across the North river to a choice list of customers in certain apartment houses of the better order He sells all that he can deliver, and the prices he gets, while reasonable enough to satisfy his patrons, are sufficiently liberal to compensate him handsomely There are other men, I notice, who make a specialty of milk, eggs and other fresh table commodities, which they deliver after the same fashion, directly from their farms or poultry yards. They pay no tribute to a middleman, nor are they under any expense for a city shop. They begin by drumming up custom in good houses and, as they serve the best of material are not long in establishing a profitable connection. After this it is plain sailing with them.

The business of putting up preserves and jellies seems also to be extensively followed by rural housewives, who seek their industry in much the same way Some of them advertise in the family papers. The majority employ a drummer to beat up custom in town. The fact that they can afford the expense of advertisement or the salary of an agent, and still make a greater profit than if they sold their products to the shops, may serve as a slight hint of the proportions of gain that fall to the middle man or retailer. A man in Fordham who has quite an extensive fruit farm, which, thanks to his passion for improving varieties, produces some of the finest fruit in the country, informs me that he now gets nearly three times as much for the product of his orchard, which he retails himself, than he did when he sold it to a fruiterer And still his customers get it cheaper than they did from the fruit shop.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

Race and Mental Disease.

In an article entitled "Race and Insanity," published in The American Journal of Insanity, Drs. Bannister and Hektoen, physicians of the Illinois eastern hospital for the insane, express the opinion that there is little doubt but that insanity is influenced by race. From the statistics of three institutions in which insane persons are treated they draw the following conclusions 1. That in the white race the depressive types of mental disease are most frequent in the Germanic and Scandinavian peoples, and least so in the Celts; the reverse of this appears to be the case as to the exalted or maniacal types. 2. That general paralysis is not a disorder to which any race is immune, but one that depends upon causes independent of racial or national peculiarities. 3. That the well known fact that insanity is much more common among the foreign born than among natives in this country is not to any great extent explainable by the shipment of the defective classes of Europe to America.

The "cranks" and epileptics and other neurotic individuals do not appear to be represented, in due proportion even, among the foreigners in our asylums The cause of the excess of foreign born insane in this country is, it seems probable, to be looked for mainly in the fact that, supposing the immigration to include only its proportion of persons below the average of mental strength and flexibility, the change of scene and associations, the difficulties of beginning life among them, disappointments, homesickness, and all the other accidents and trials that befall the new comers, together contribute to break down mentally a vast number who under other circumstances would have escaped, and largely contribute to the mass of insanity in this country.—Science.

Charcoal Burners of Cuba.

During the first day of our excursion our quest was rewarded with nothing in the shape of deep wood sights or tenantry though the very earth seemed filled with songs and calls of negritos, mayitos cabreros, zorales, totises, chinchinguacos solviros, pioreras, savaneros, canaries and mocking birds, which frequent the more open districts and plantation trees and hedges, but as we neared the denser forests, along towards nightfall, we came upon a little settlement of people well worth going a long distance to know

These were the Cuban carboneros or charcoal burners As all of the cooking and much of the manufacturing requiring heat in the Cuban cities are done with charcoal, charcoal burning provides a sort of a livelihood for a small and picturesque class, who fell timber and burn charcoal at will in the countless island forests These carboneros comprise some queer people Most of them are inoffensive and hospitable, but many are refugees from the late revolution, for the Spanish soldiery deem it wise not to disturb any body in these almost inaccessible haunts So, aside from insurgent refugees, in nearly every carbonero's camp will also be found, if you happen to be in company with those whose sympathies are with a certain flag which waved defiance to the hated Spanish red and gold over the blood swept fields of Camaguay, here and there a noted bandit who could never be taken from among his swarthy friends.—Edgar L. Wakeman's Letter in Philadelphia Times.

Horses and Mules in Mexico.

The Mexican horse is a serviceable animal, good for long journeys, easy in a canter, intelligent, full of fun at times, but rarely vicious, and could he be domesticated in the United States would be very popular. The rare air of these table lands is unfavorable to imported horses, and it requires several months to acclimate a Kentucky horse here American carriage horses are imported because of their size and good style, $2,000 a pair being a not infrequent price But nothing is more aristocratic looking than a span of fine mules drawing a family coach American visitors are always enthusiastic over the handsome, well groomed pairs of mules one sees here.

Equestrianism for ladies is becoming popular, and there are some excellent riders among the fair sex. The climate permits riding every morning in the year, which, to a rider, is a great source of pleasure. One does not have to wonder if the next morning will be pleasant, and there is no forced confinement to the rectangle of the riding school, where frequent turning of corners is conducive to dizziness and final disgust with the noblest recreation of man.—Cor. Boston Herald.

Shortsightedness in California is attributed by some physicians to the absence of color in that country, the prevailing tint being dull brown or drab In the land of perpetual sunshine, white houses and white concrete sidewalks are said to be most injurious to the sight.—Chicago Herald.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approaches are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption, and to the head causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

Dear Sirs,—About two months ago, on your recommendation, I bought a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box CUTICURA SALVE, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, for my son, aged thirteen years, who has been afflicted with eczema for a long time, and I am pleased to say that I believe the remedies have cured him. His sufferings were intense, his head being nearly raw, his ears being gone except the gristle, and his body was covered with sores. His condition was frightful to behold. The sores have now all disappeared, his skin is healthy, eyes bright, cheerful in disposition, and is working every day. My neighbors are witnesses to this remarkable cure, and the doubting ones are requested to call or write me, or any of my neighbors.

WM. S. STEPHENSON.

WINCHESTER P. O., UNION CO., N. C.

MONROE, N. C., Oct. 29, 1887.

THE POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO:

Gentlemen,—Mr. Wm. S. Stephenson of this county brought his son to town to-day to let us see him, and to show us what CUTICURA REMEDIES had done for him. This is the case referred to in our letter to you some time ago. To look at the boy now, one would suppose that there had never been anything the matter with him,—seems to be in perfect health. We have written and herewith inclose what his father has to say about the matter,—wrote it just as he dictated.

We are selling quite a quantity of CUTICURA REMEDIES and hear nothing but praises for them. We regard the CUTICURA REMEDIES the best in the market, and shall do all we can to promote their sale. Yours truly,

STEVENS & BRUNER, Druggists and Pharmacists.

COCA WINE

Sustains and Refreshes both Mind and Body, Aids Digestion, Improves the Appetite, And Removes Fatigue.

It is both effective and rapid in its action, and may be taken with perfect safety for any length of time. It is superior to all other tonics, such as Iron, Cinchona, Calisaya, &c., and unlike these IT NEVER CONSTIPATES.

In cases of sleeplessness from exhaustion or fatigue it is invaluable, producing sound and refreshing sleep, without the distressing sensation so common after Opiates, Bromides, and Hydrate of Chloral.

It has been prescribed throughout Europe for years by the most eminent physicians, and has been pronounced the most powerful restorer of the vital forces.

From Alberni Settlement.

Sheriff Drake and Mr. F. McQuillon returned to Nanaimo from Alberni on Monday. The former ejected Mr. D. Little from the land of Mr. Taylor, and sold Little's growing crops under a writ of execution to satisfy the costs in the suit. Mr. Drake speaks in glowing terms of the magnificent valley of Alberni and the hospitality of the settlers.

Board of Aldermen.

Seven aldermen put in an appearance at the city hall last evening, and after transacting some committee business, prepared to commence the regular weekly meeting of the board. Just then the fire bells rang out an alarm, and Aldermen Wilson and Vigelius left the hall, leaving the board without a quorum, and consequently the meeting collapsed.

British Columbia Silver.

Some very rich specimens of copper and iron ores have been received at the State Mining Bureau, San Francisco, from the Kootenay district in British Columbia. The spot whence they were taken is on the immediate border of Oregon, on the State line. The assayer's report has not yet been received, but it is known that the percentage of silver is extraordinarily large.

Excursion to Port Townsend.

The O. R. & N. Co. advertise the fine steamer Olympian to leave here on Sunday morning on an excursion trip to Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Crescent Bay. The time for leaving will be 8:30 o'clock, the steamer returning to the city about 7 o'clock p. m. At Port Townsend the Alaskan will be met with a party of excursionists from up Sound, and as ample time will be afforded, the party from this city may count on having a delightful time. Fare for the round trip has been fixed at $2.00.

Fire Alarm.

About 8.30 o'clock last evening an alarm of fire was sent in by telephone to the Deluge engine house, the message stating that the fire was located near Sayward's mill. The department turned out with alacrity and were some distance on the way before it was ascertained that the fire was really at Wilson Bros.' foundry, on Pembroke street. Before the department reached the scene, the fire, which was located near the boiler, had been extinguished with a few buckets of water, and the services of the firemen were fortunately not required.

B. C. Rifle Association.

A special meeting of the members of the council of the B. C. Rifle Association was held last evening to consider the advisability of sending a team of five members of the active militia to represent this province at the annual prize meeting of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association, commencing on the 3d September next. Those forming the team selected under the regulation of the last annual prize meeting are Sergeant Beckwith, Private Sharpe of Westminster, Sergeant J. Newbury, Sergeant H. H. Roper and Gunner Cullin. A committee of three was appointed to solicit subscriptions towards the object in view, and it is to be hoped our citizens will respond liberally and assist in maintaining the prestige of the militia, already so successfully inaugurated. The presence of a team of Provincial riflemen on the Rideau range will do much towards encouraging the local militia corps by providing an inducement to our young men, and it is to be hoped all will assist in this praiseworthy object.

Death of Seth Green.

Seth Green died at New York on Monday, aged 71 years. Mr. Green was well-known for his success in the artificial propagation of fish. In 1868 he was appointed one of the fish commissioners of New York, and was afterwards made superintendent of fisheries in that state. He transported in 1871 the first shad ever taken to California, where that fish is now abundant. He hatched artificially the spawn of about twenty kinds of fish, also hybridizing striped bass with shad, shad with herring, brook trout with salmon trout, brook trout with California salmon, salmon trout with white fish, and European trout with brook trout. He invented appliances for use in fish hatching, and wrote several books on the subject. Nearly every state and territory with clear-water streams has established fish-hatcheries or is the recipient from the government of young fish hatched after Green's method, and he has high claim to be remembered as one of the foremost benefactors of the human race.

The Troubadours.

The Troubadours had a big house at the Star Theatre last night, and there was no lack of appreciation of the vigorous efforts to be entertaining. Of the original band only three members now remain, and upon the powers and popularity of these three performers the company still depends for favor. The others are merely "feeders." The principals, on the other hand, are entertainers of uncommon skill and justly hold a high place in the esteem of people who like burlesque singing, dancing and mimicry. Whatever they do is done well. The present medium of their antics is called "The Humming Bird;" but what matter? If it were called "The Mongoose" or the "The Ibis" the result would ba just the same, and the public is likely to make their stay pleasant for them.—The Times, Feb. 8th. 1887.

The Troubadours are said to be the most amusing and entertaining people that have ever visited Victoria. They appear on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Berryman-Shakespeare.

The Pandora Avenue Methodist Church was crowded to the doors last evening, many being denied admittance, on the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Frederick Berryman, formerly of New Brunswick, now of Victoria, and Miss Maria Shakespeare, daughter of Mr. N. Shakespeare, Postmaster in this city. Rev. Mr. Starr performed the wedding ceremony. The bride, who was handsomely attired in lemon colored satin with lace, the veil being draped and caught up with orange blossoms, was given away by her father. The bridesmaids were Miss Kate Gibbs, who wore buttercup satin, Miss Amelia Carne, lavender satin and lace, Miss Lilian Beck, and Miss Nellie Rudge, who wore pale blue nun's veiling, trimmed with cream lace. Mr. George Rudge, uncle of the bridegroom, supported by Mr. Harry Shakespeare, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The two little Misses Spencer, Josephine and Charlotte, strewed choice flowers in the aisle as the bride and groom left the church. Not the least pleasant part of the service was the music by Prof. Sharp, the Wedding March being rendered in especially fine taste. An elegant dinner was afterwards served at the residence of the bride's parents, "Stratford Villa," where the wedding presents, numerous and costly, were viewed by the large company assembled. Mr. and Mrs. Berryman left for the Sound this morning, amid showers of rice and old slippers, accompanied by the best wishes of their many friends, amongst whom THE COLONIST wishes to number itself. The young couple on their return will reside on the Work estate.

A Serious Incident.

It is said that Mr. Kennedy, who was struck on the head with a club by Capt. Savary, of the steamer Muriel, is not expected to recover, and his family have been sent for. The injured man is at Vancouver, where Capt. Savary was allowed out on $5,000 bail. The affair occurred while the steamer was en route from the north. Kennedy, who was engineer, desired to repair the engine, and endeavored to stop it without Capt. Savary's permission, the latter being asleep. When the engine stopped the captain awoke, and seeing that the steamer was in a strong current, seized a piece of wood and struck the engineer over the head, felling him. At the time of his assailant's remand at Vancouver, the injured man was in a critical condition and the physicians now state he cannot recover. Mr. Kennedy is a well known pioneer of Victoria and has been engineer on several steamers, and was formerly in charge of the engine in this office. It is hoped that he may pull through, for, in the event of a fatal result, Capt. Savary would have a serious charge to answer.

James Bay Bridge.

Hackmen, draymen and others rejoice! for next week you will see the re-opening of James Bay bridge, which has been undergoing repairs for over three months. It is stated by mechanics, who ought to know, that the structure is now very strong and durable, and in spite of almost insurmountable difficulties, Mr. Chas. Hayward, the contractor, has to all appearances been very successful. The bridge is now on the proper level and the arches have been strengthened with new braces, numbering in all 192, or 24 braces to each arch. These will support a heavy weight and are calculated to hold the bridge in position for many years. Yesterday the rails were removed and will be straightened, many of them having been bent, owing to the gradual sinkage in the bridge. The flooring has been re-laid and in a few days the work will be completed. There has been much dissatisfaction expressed at the delay in opening the bridge for traffic, but those who have had the matter explained to them and who were at first disposed to blame the contractor, are now satisfied that he had many difficulties, wholly unforseen at the start, to contend with.

PERSONAL.

B. Van Volkenburg has returned from Vancouver.

J. C. McLagan went over to Vancouver this morning.

Theo. Davie, Q.C., D. M. Eberts and T. C. Atkinson were passengers from the Inlet on the Yosemite last night.

J. Burke, of Portland, arrived over last night to look after the interests of the "Humming Bird" musical comedy.

Mr. M. W. Waitt will leave on a business trip to the east in the course of a few days and will be happy to undertake any commission entrusted to him.

Special agent Beecher and several other K. of P. grand officers arrived on the Alaskan last night, and leave for Comox this morning to open a new lodge.

Hugh Ryan, wife and daughter, of Toronto, arrived last night on the Yosemite and registered at the Driard. Mr. Ryan was the contractor for Section A of the C. P. R., a most difficult piece of work, east of Winnipeg, which he carried through successfully. With M. J. Haney, his present partner, he was last year concerned in the building of the Red River Valley railway. He will spend several days in Victoria and then return east.

M. J. Haney, one of the chief witnesses for the government in the C.P.R. arbitration case, arrived from Vancouver last night. His evidence in the matter was most important, as no one knew the character of the work so well as he, for it was under his superintendence as A. Onderdonk's manager that it was built. With his partner, Mr. Hugh Ryan, he is building a very costly traffic bridge over the Missouri river at Fort Benton, Mont., and leaves for that point in a few days.

T. A. Cairns, the obliging and efficient Deputy Postmaster in this city, left for Ontario this morning via the C.P.R. for a couple of months' vacation. The old home at Perth is his objective point, but he will as well visit the principal cities, renewing old associations and recalling old memories. His many friends in Victoria follow him with best wishes, and trust he will return to the Pacific Coast greatly benefited by the needed change. Dame Rumor, but she is often a lying wench, says he will not return alone. So mote it be!

The Princess of Wales recently appeared at a fete in London in a bustleless gown, and some two dozen leaders of fashion have since followed her example. The dress was not flat in the back, but was made to curve gracefully by the aid of two small reeds, the uppermost one placed about eight inches from the belt line. At Newport the bustle is still very generally worn, although two or three very prominent ladies, Mrs. Orme Wilson and Mrs. Henry Clews, have appeared at the Casino in morning gowns of flannel, with broad sash tied at the back, and without either reeds or bustle in the drapery. The latest bulletins from Long Branch, Saratoga and Richfield still speak of the bustle as retaining all its prestige. At Narragansett, however, it has been discarded with bathing suits, although worn on all other occasions.

C. P. R. ARBITRATION.

The work of the arbitrators in the case of the C. P. R. for remuneration on account of alleged faults in the government section in this province has adjourned until the 3d December, when a meeting will be held in Ottawa, and further evidence taken. The arbitrators and a number of the counsel and witnesses left for the east on Tuesday, while several came on to Victoria for a few days' visit. The enquiry has been most exhaustive, witnesses being kept in the box for days at a time, and closely cross-examined. Every possible information has been elicited and counsel for both sides have well represented their clients' interests. Outside of the inquiry a good deal of "bluff" was exhibited by the railway company in a variety of ways, and they have made every endeavor to make out a strong case. It would be premature to forecast the probable finding of the arbitrators, but those who are well acquainted with all the facts are of opinion that there will be either an insignificant or a munificent sum awarded the voracious company. The whole matter hinges rather on a law point than on defects in the road, for the evidence rather favored the government's contention that a first class road in all respects had been handed over to the railway syndicate. The final result will probably not be reached before the beginning of the new year.

MIND-READER BISHOP

Drugged, Wounded and Robbed on the Streets of San Francisco.

Early on Friday morning last Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, was found lying on the sidewalk covered with blood and apparently dead, on New Montgomery street, near the carriage entrance to the Palace Hotel, San Francisco. The injured gentleman was picked up and taken to a bench near by, blood flowing freely from a wound in his head. Dr. Dennis was summoned and he at once had Mr. Bishop conveyed to his room in the hotel. It was found on examination that he had been drugged and afterwards struck on the head with a blunt instrument, causing an ugly wound. The left shoulder was also badly bruised by a blow. Bishop's condition was such that he was utterly unable to give an account of what had happened until several hours later, when he told the following story: During the previous evening he attended a performance at the Cremorne with a friend, and while there occupied a private box and had a few drinks of Apollinaris water. Left the place about 11 o'clock and called upon a spiritualist friend, where they remained some time. Then started for the hotel and parted with his friend at the corner of Bush and Kearney streets. About this time, Bishop said a feeling of nausea came over him, and he remembered no more until he regained consciousness in his room at the Palace Hotel. The sum of $10 which was in his pocket was missing, and the top of a gold-headed cane, presented to him by King Kalakaua, had been wrenched off by force and taken. Dr. Dennis says Bishop's appearance was that of a man who was suffering from absinthe poisoning, and that he had been drugged there is little doubt. The wound on the head is not severe, and Bishop is recovering. The whole affair is shrouded in mystery, and there is no clue to the perpetrator of the deed.

THE CARIBOO TEST WORKS.

TO THE EDITOR:—Having seen a letter of a Chilcoten resident, signing himself "X," in the Times' issue of 27th July, in which he proceeds to heap all manner of abuse on the heads of our local members, Messrs. Cowan and Mason, for the opinion they have expressed and the active part they have taken regarding the test works about to be erected in Cariboo, he makes those gentlemen little better than cappers for gin-mills and such like by the course they have taken. Now to put this "X" right I may inform him that the meeting which was held at Barkerville was held at the request of the government, and the question to be discussed was not whether the works were to be put up in connection with the Island Mountain Co., or to be put up close to Barkerville, as this "X" would have it, to run all the money into the coffers of those who were close by. But it was whether the people considered the mining interests would be better served if the works were put up in connection with the Island Mountain or owned and entirely controlled by the government, and the meeting was unanimous in favor of the latter. And if the matter had been reconsidered it is very possible that the same conclusion would have been arrived at. I admit the proposition which the Island Mountain Co. made to the government was a very liberal one, but it only extended over a period of two years, and at the end of that time fresh arrangements would have to be made. Now my opinion is that a test mill is of infinitely more importance to a mining district than an assay office (not deprecating the importance of an assay office), and that it should not be there for one or two years, or ten years, but for all time to come, as there is no one but would have more confidence in getting an honest return from a mill under the control of the government than one run by a private company. The argument of "X" would have much more force had it not been for the three words (pies all hot) which he used, making an attempt to cast a slur on Mr. Mason. All those acquainted with the early career of that gentleman know that he made a very small beginning, and it is certainly much to his credit that entirely by his own exertions he is now occupying a foremost place amongst us. I think it would be quite safe to say that if "X" had ever sold pies in his life he would be selling pies yet.

THE MENZIES CASE.

Conclusion of the Evidence—Arguments of Counsel—Judgement Deferred Until Friday.

In the supreme court yesterday morning the Menzies case was again taken up. The first witness examined was Jessie Fowler, daughter of Mrs. Fowler, a former matron of the Chinese Home. She said—I reside in Victoria. My mother was matron of the Chinese Home for nearly a year. The home was then on Frederick street. When my mother was appointed matron there were six girls in the Home. Mrs. Hopkins was there before my mother. Ah Lin was there. She was there when my mother left. Next saw her in February, when she came to our house on Fisgard street. Another Chinese girl, Ah Ho, was with her. She said she had been turned out of the Home. She was very lightly clothed. The weather was very cold, and both girls were crying. My mother took them and gave them supper. They came there for protection and not for a visit. Mr. Gardner was the manager of the Home at the time. He did not come for the girls. We kept them for four days. My mother told me she went to see Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Irving—I object to this hearsay evidence.

His Lordship—I would not stand on that, but if you insist on your legal rights I will have to sustain you. It is really of very little importance whether her mother went to see Mr. Gardner or not.

Witness—Mr. Gardner paid my mother what he owed her; my mother sent Ah Lin and Ah Ho to Mr. Gardner's house; they came back in about an hour; my mother told them to go home and gave them a pipe and tobacco belonging to some girls in the home that had been left at Mrs. Fowler's; they came back again and said they had been to the home; Miss Leek had whipped them and turned them out.

His Lordship—What practical bearing have these questions on the case? it seems to me that these statements are reflecting on people who are not on trial.

Mr. Walls—I wish to bring out the fact of Ah Lin's non-veracity by this witness.

His Lordship—The charge against Mr. Menzies is that of procuring illicit relations with one Ah Chee, and it seems to me that these questions reflecting as they do on parties who are not on their trial are unnecessary.

Mr. Irving—If this line is followed we will allow no question which is misleading.

Mr. Drake—The charge itself is a specific one no doubt; but the case is surrounded by circumstances which we wish to draw out—that is, we have to go in a rather roundabout way to get at the evidence.

His Lordship—The purport of your examination is to show then that Ah Lin is totally unreliable as a witness. I do not place much reliance on Chinese witnesses nor on the interpreter, and I therefore give a wider latitude than perhaps the law would strictly allow.

Witness, continuing—Ah Lin and Ah Ho went to Mr. Menzies' house. Mr. Cohen took Ah Ho and Mr. Menzies kept Ah Lin. Never saw Ah Lin afterwards. My mother was not paid for keeping the girls.

To Mr. Fell—My mother asked no one to pay her for keeping the girls. The Home was only a few blocks from our house. They went to the Home themselves. Ah Lin was a bad girl. Do not know Mrs. Crawford. Do not know whether Mr. Menzies lived with her or not.

James A. Cohen was next called—Am a printer. Ah Ho was in my employ. She told me where the Home was. She went to see Ah Lin once or twice. She did not seem to want to go back to the Home.

Ah Chee recalled. To Mr. Drake—Ah Lin told me she was willing to marry me. She told me so twenty or thirty times. Mrs. Crawford, Ah Lin and myself were present. Spoke to Ah Lin in Chinese. Mr. Menzies bought Ah Lin shoes, clothing, etc. Mrs. Crawford told me so. So did Ah Lin.

To Mr. Irving—She did not take the clothing, etc., away from Mr. Menzies. I did not come to help Mr. Menzies today. Do not like him. Visited him in jail and took him pies and cakes, etc. Did not talk about the case in jail.

This closed the case for the defence.

Mr. Drake then addressed his Lordship. He said he had already pointed out the grounds why this case should be dismissed. There was nothing fraudulent about the payment of that money by Ah Chee. Ah Lin was at perfect freedom to marry Ah Chee if she chose, and had freedom to go where she chose. Her testimony is contradictory in many particulars, and her statements bear the evidence of being unworthy of credit. I will not allude to the management of the Home, but your Lordship will observe that there appears to have been no attempt to return these girls to that institution. Menzies had acted the part of a Christian in caring for the girls for several months. Ah Chee admitted himself that he had to go to a clergyman. Where, then, comes in the false pretences?

His Lordship—I have always thought that in cases of this kind the law ought to allow a man to testify in his own behalf. But it is a fact that in our law, the more atrocious the crime the more his tongue is tied.

Mr. Drake—If this act concerning public morals be enforced, in its literal sense, against Chinese and Indians there would not be many escape. Again, if these people think themselves married according to Chinese customs there is no infringement on the statute.

His Lordship—What was the use of Menzies going through the form of getting a marriage license, and if the receipt is to be believed what is the use of it unless it is to mislead. I do not say it is so, and I would like to have it explained.

Mr. Drake—Menzies pointed out to Ah Chee that neither the license or receipt constituted a marriage. I want to point out this fact, your lordship, in order to show there were no false pretences. Secondly, there was a marriage which was in accordance with Chinese law therefore there was no offence against the statute.

Mr. Irving said—There was no rebuttal evidence on the part of witnesses for the defence. Mr. Irving then went on to review the evidence, and claimed that while Menzies was living with Mrs. Hopkins, who was his mother-in-law, that the contributions made by him (Menzies) was for the support of his own immediate family. The clothing provided for Ah Lin was not suitable for one of her race, and there was nothing to justify the payment of $150 to the prisoner. Ah Lin may have been a little vixen.

Mr. Irving—As regards Ah Lin's ability to speak English, it is evident that Ah Lin was able to understand "pigeon" English. Ah Chee was friendly with the prisoner, as has been shown. Ah Lin, who was not friendly disposed towards the prisoner and who comes from the Home—yet they substantially agree and their stories could not be concocted.

His Lordship—This is a serious case and a great question affecting public morality. I shall examine the law carefully, weigh the facts, and give my opinion as a judge and jury.

Mr. Menzies, through his counsel, asked to make a statement.

Mr. Irving objected, and said that he (Menzies) should have made his statement before the crown attorney addressed the court.

His Lordship said he would have to have authority for this. The speedy trials act was a new procedure and made the judge a jury as well as a judge, and he would have to have authority cited before establishing a precedent.

After some further discussion, Mr. Irving's objection was sustained. Judgment on the case will be delivered Friday at 11 a. m.
